PREFACE

A Table of vital statistics for this Gorman family is provided at the end of this story. It is based on a listing of family members provided by Geraldine Kight. As subsequent census reports, marriage records, obituaries, draft registration cards, etc., provided different data, the table was revised. The table contains data beyond that necessary for this Chesapeake and Ohio Canal family history in hopes it will be useful to others doing research; Geraldine Kight has done most of that research. This is a work in progress and new information would be most welcome.

Geraldine Kight (geraldinekight1950@gmail.com) has contributed considerable research to this report, beyond the family statistics, many thanks.

We hope the readers will find the story interesting and contact either of us with additional information or corrections.

From his obituary, we learn that John Gorman emigrated from Dublin, Ireland in 1850, at 12 years of age, landing in New York. He subsequently moved to Cumberland, Md., the exact date to be determined.

The Civil War began on April 12, 1861.

We know that John Gorman was in Cumberland on or about October 1863 because a newspaper reported that a letter with his name on it was remaining in the Cumberland Post Office.¹

On March 21, 1864, in consideration of $1,600, John Gorman bought the canal boat Happy Traveler from Thomas Gemmell, the purchase money to be paid in installments.² A copy of the deed is appended at the back of this report.

On April 18, 1864 the canal boat Happy Traveler arrived in Georgetown with coal to Hampshire & Baltimore Coal Co.³ John Gorman, of Blair Co., Pa. registered the canal boat Happy Traveler on 4/20/1864, hailing out of Cumberland, Md., Class C, 90'-6" in length, 14'-6" in breadth, with 10” draught empty and 54” in draught loaded.⁴ Then on June 6, 1864, John Gorman sold that canal boat, all the furniture and fixtures therein, plus six mules and their boat harness to a John Tully.⁵

John Gorman, of Cumberland, Md., registered the canal boat John Cowden, on Oct. 20, 1864, hailing out of Cumberland, Md., Class C, 90'-6" in length, 14'-6" in breadth, with 10” draught empty and 54” draught loaded.⁶ He arrived in Georgetown with coal from Borden Mining Co. on 10/17/1864 and 10/26/1864.⁷ The following year, on April 1, 1865, John Gorman, in consideration of $1,336.44, bought the canal boat John Cowden from the Borden Mining Company. The purchase money was to be paid off by installments of $50 per trip, each trip was to be made running day and night, with as much expedition and regularity as could reasonably be done with double teams whenever required by the Borden Company.

The Civil War ended on April 9, 1865.

The canal boat John Cowden arrived in Georgetown on 4/14/1865 with coal to Borden Co.⁸ and again on 12/2/1865 with American Coal Company coal and departed that same day.⁹

John Gorman became indebted to John Cowden in the amount of $889.60 and put up his canal boat, John Cowden, four mules, four sets of boat harness, the rigging, fixtures and furniture as collateral for the loan, on April 12, 1866.¹⁰ If the 1865 data is correct, i.e. John Gorman made only 2 trips at $50 trippage fee each instead of the expected 10 trips, then he would have fallen behind in his mortgage payments. The Civil War was over. There must have been another reason.

1866 was a little better for John Gorman in that he made a few more trips, arriving at Georgetown:

He certainly wasn’t setting any record for a round trip or number of trips.

No record of the John Cowden was found for 1867 through 1870.

The 1870 census listed a John Gorman, age 30, a boatman, with a personal estate valued at $1,600, living in Cumberland, Md.\(^{11}\) Living with him was Sarah Gorman, age 19, relationship not recorded. His birthplace was listed as New York (his port of entry).

We can confirm that the canal boat John Cowden departed Cumberland with coal on 4/27, 5/9, 5/19, 5/30, 6/7, 6/22, 7/1, 7/12, 7/27, 8/18, 8/31, 9/28, 10/9, 10/21 and 11/3/1871.\(^{12}\) Then on 11/16/1871 the canal boat John Gorman departed Cumberland with coal.\(^{13}\) Which would suggest that John Gorman had paid the $889.60 debt to John Cowden and then renamed the canal boat after himself. All the coal freighted was Borden Company coal, except the one trip on 6/22/1871, which was for the Maryland Company.

Early in 1872 a newspaper reported: Horse Race on the Ice.\(^{14}\) – We are informed that a race will take place at 2 o’clock this afternoon on the river in front of the city. The following entries have been announced: Match race, trotting in sleighs, one mile, for a purse of $200. John Gorman enters bay horse “Strychnine;” Michael Quigley enters brown mule “Flying Cloud.” The course will begin at a point one mile above the river bridge, and the bridge will be the end. The ice is in fine condition for racing upon it, and if the animals are closely matched no doubt an interesting contest will be made. From the knoll on the Virginia side of the river the whole course is in view, and from that point the race can be best seen.

From the 1872 data, we can confirm that the John Gorman departed Cumberland on 5/28, 6/11, 6/26, 7/16, 8/4, 8/25, 9/15, 10/2, 10/24, 11/6, and 11/27/1872, 11 trips. Usually with George’s Creek Company coal.\(^{15}\)

We can confirm that the canal boat John Gorman left Cumberland with coal on 4/9, 5/24, 7/24, 9/17, 9/27, 11/8 and 11/21/1873, 7 trips.\(^{16}\) Usually with New Central Coal Company coal. John Gorman was listed as a boatman, residing at 17 Smallwood St., Cumberland, Md. in 1873.\textsuperscript{17} In the same directory, Sarah Degnan was listed as living at 11 Smallwood St.

We have not confirmed any departures for the canal boat \textit{John Gorman} in either 1874 or 1875.

For some as yet unexplained reason, John Kinney became indebted to John Gorman in the amount of $1,000.00 and put up four mules as collateral on Sept. 19, 1874.\textsuperscript{18}

On Thursday, Feb. 17, 1876, there was a Maryland Senate investigation of the affairs of the C. & O. Canal. John Gorman testified he was a boatman for 16 years, the canal is in good condition, better than it ever was.\textsuperscript{19}

In the intervening years, John Gorman must have found a path to some wealth as evidenced by the following story:

“STEAMERS NOW BUILDING

Besides those already on the canal, five others are now in process of construction here. At the yard of Coulehan Brothers one is being built, which will have machinery on the Pearce plan. Weld & Sheridan are building two which will have one propeller and have two others of the same pattern in contemplation. At the yard of Wm. Young & Brothers there are now two steamers building, one of which is on the well-known Chillicothe plan, and the machinery for the other boat, which will be the largest on the canal and will be owned by Mr. John Gorman, of this city, is now being constructed at Rochester, Pa., by the parties who built the works for the "New Era." The engine for this boat will be an immense one, and the propeller will be five feet in diameter. The machinery will arrive here on the 10th of this month and the boat will be launched in about two weeks after that.”\textsuperscript{20}
\end{quote}

In the meantime, on March 8, 1876, Mr. A. M. Brandt, in consideration of $650.00, used his canal boat \textit{Capt. John R. Masters}, 3 mules, 4 sets of harness and two fall boards as collateral for John Gorman, who apparently vouched for the note on the Queen City Savings Bank.\textsuperscript{21}

Later that same month we read: “The machinery for the new propeller, which has been built for Mr. John Gorman at the boatyard of William Young & Bros. during the past winter, has been placed in the hull, except the boiler, which is expected every day. An extended description of this steamer has already appeared in the \textit{Alleganian}.”\textsuperscript{22}

On Saturday, another newspaper reported: “The new steam canal boat built by Mr. William Young for Captain John Gorman, was launched at Cumberland on Thursday. She has been fitted with a single engine with vertical boiler, and a single propeller, by Mr. M. Darrah, of Beaver, Pennsylvania, who supplied the machinery for the \textit{New Era}, which is of the same pattern. The boat will transport coal for the Borden Mining Company, and Captain Gorman, who is an experienced canal-man, designs making her carry more coal than any steamer on the canal.”\textsuperscript{23}

The next Monday, a local newspaper reported: “The Arthur Lovell.”

The screw propeller owned by Mr. John Gorman, which was built during the past winter at the boatyard of Messrs. Wm. Young & Brothers, will make her first trip down the canal in a few days. The “Arthur Lovell,” which is the name selected for his vessel by Mr. Gorman, is a very large and handsome steamer, with a greater carrying capacity, it is claimed by the owner, than any other steamer on the canal. Besides the fuel, it is calculated that she can deliver an average of about 112 tons. Though generally constructed on the plan of the “New Era,” a two-wheeled propeller, the “Arthur Lovell” has only one propeller, with a diameter of five feet when the boat is unloaded, and four feet two inches loaded. The difference in the diameter of the propeller, to be adapted to the loaded or unloaded condition of the boat, is accomplished by having moveable attachments to the propeller which can be removed or put on in about fifteen minutes. The weight of the engine and boiler will be about five tons. It is expected to run this steamer day and night, with a force of five hands. By and by, after some experiments, it is also intended to use her as a towboat, the engine being considered sufficiently powerful to do this. The entire cost of the “Arthur Lovell” will be $3,500.

The next day, the same newspaper reported: “The machinery of the “Arthur Lovell,” Mr. John Gorman’s new steamer, was tested yesterday, while the boat was kept in a stationary position. The trial trip will be made shortly.”

On Thursday, the newspaper reported: “Trial of the Lovell.

“It was given out yesterday that the “Arthur Lovell,” Mr. John Gorman’s new steamer would make a trial trip today. The Lovell is generally on the New Era plan, but she has only one propeller, and that has a variable diameter, as she is loaded or unloaded, of from four feet two inches to five feet. Early yesterday evening an Alleganian reporter saw Mr. Darragh dash by a place on Baltimore street where the former was standing. There was something in his demeanor that indicated business. Accordingly, the reporter thought it would probably pay to walk over toward Potomac wharf and listen to the roar of the breakers on the bar outside that never reach the shore. When he arrived there, he found the Arthur Lovell with steam all up, and Mr. Gorman stirring about like a bee in fresh clover. The reporter appreciating the joke, and wishing to escape notice, drew a slouch hat down over his eyes, drew up the lapels of his overcoat, and went aboard, quietly taking a seat alongside the bow cabin. In a minute or two the “Lovell” backed out into the stream and away she went up and down the river from a point just above the blue river to the long curve above Malayan’s. The time made by the Lovell was excellent, and if she can only do as well in the narrow waters of the canal her success is assured. The moral of this incident is easy to adduce. When you have any experiments to make after this, do not imagine you can do so without the Alleganian’s knowing all about it, provided we care to know.”

Two days later the story continued: “Trial Trip of the Arthur Lovell, Steamer.

“A trial trip of Mr. Gorman’s new steam canal boat Arthur Lovell took place yesterday. The boat left the Potomac wharf at 10:30 a. m. and moved down the river to the lock. In passing through the lock it moved out without jamming, as one wheeled propellers generally do. At the lock many persons aboard, the entire number on the boat being over one hundred.

---

“The trial trip was to the aqueduct (about four miles) and return. Notwithstanding that the day was unfavorable for a trial trip, on account of the [illegible] a perfect gale at times, the average time made going down was about six miles an hour. There were also obstructions in the way of empty boats without crews. There was slight washing of the banks, which was principally on the berm side. Mr. John Gorman, the owner, acted as pilot; Mr. Samuel Lloyd was engineer. Mr. Gorman purposes loading the boat as soon as possible, for a trip to Georgetown.”

And the story continued: “The Lovell.

“The “Arthur Lovell,” Mr. John Gorman’s steamer, which left this port with a convoy on Saturday, made excellent time, and operated to the entire satisfaction of the owner and builder. The time made was one mile in 24 minutes, which is at the rate of 2½ miles an hour.”

Note that when the Arthur Lovell left Cumberland on 4/10/1876, she had the Capt. John R. Masters in tow, and they remained so for the rest of 1876. Specifically, the steamer. Arthur Lovell, left Cumberland on 4/10, 4/18, 4/26, 5/8, 5/25, 6/6, 6/22, 7/1, 7/12, 7/24, 8/2, 8/16, 8/30, 9/8, 9/18, 10/5, 10/16, 10/27, 11/4, 11/15 and 11/27/1876 always with Capt. John Gorman bound for Georgetown freighting Borden Mining Company coal; 21 trips. And the Capt. John R. Masters left on the same dates, presumably in tow, always with Capt. John Gorman bound for Georgetown freighting Borden Mining Company coal. It appears that Mr. A. M. Brandt could not pay his $650.00 note at Queen City Savings bank; then John Gorman repossessed the boat and used it to carry additional coal.

The following Saturday, the local newspaper reported: “The Arthur Lovell.

“The Arthur Lovell, Mr. John Gorman, captain, which with her convoy left Georgetown at half-past three o’clock on Thursday afternoon, arrived here yesterday afternoon at 3 o’clock. During the round trip she consumed not quite six tons of fuel. It is believed by the owner that alone she would not consume more than four tons.”

In May 1876 a competition between steamers developed: “The Boat Race on the Canal.

“Yesterday we published the circumstances attending the race on the canal between the steam canal boats Ludlow Patton and Areturus. The points in the case were furnished us by a friend of the former; and now comes forward as a friend of the latter and offers a few strong points as the reasons why the Ludlow Patton passed the Areturus. [illegible] when the Areturus started, it was not with any understanding of a race, second, that the Areturus carried 109 09 tons, while the former carried only 95 tons, a difference of nearly 14 tons in freight, the two vessels being of an equal bulk of measurement. In the collision on the canal neither boat was seriously damaged.

30 Alleganian & Daily Times, Cumberland, Md., newspaper, Saturday, 4/15/1876, p. 4.
‘There is a great interest taken by the friends of each of these boats as to swiftness of each vessel, and a friend of the Areturus informs us that there is the sum of $1,000 ready to be placed as a wager on that vessel being the swiftest of the two.

‘Come up, gentlemen of the first and second part; plank down your rags and let us have the dispute settled by a fair race, a free course, and a long run, and let the one that wins bear the laurels.’

Two days later, the competition took a turn when John Gorman got involved: ‘WHO HAS THE FASTEST BOAT?

‘On Tuesday last we published an article on the trial of speed upon the waters of the canal, giving the particulars of the voyage of the Ludlow Patton and her collision with the Areturus. We inserted the article as a matter of news, little dreaming that asperities of the friends of the two vessels would warm up to a white heat. On the following day we gave a version of a friend of the Areturus on the trip of that vessel to tide water, showing that she was far heavier laden than the competitor and not aware that the latter, which left this port several hours later, designed to make the trip a trial of speed.

‘Our paper had scarcely made its appearance upon the streets yesterday, and had been read with that avidity for which it is sought by our thousand readers, when a warm friend of the Ludlow Patton and our self, visited us with the following communication, which explains itself:

‘Mr. Editors: If the believers in the speed of boat “Areturus” really wish to make the match as indicated in your paper of yesterday, with the steam canal boat “Ludlow Patton,” they can be accommodated on the following terms:

‘Both boats to be loaded to the same depth of water, and no coal except for fuel to be removed on trip down. To toss for choice of sides, and to start say one-mile up river, abreast, the boat ahead to take first lock. Running to be regulated as to passing each other by the custom and rules of the Chesapeake and Ohio canal.

‘Time for lying for unloading to be allowed.

‘A disinterested party to go on each boat to see fair play.

‘The “Areturus” party of the “second part” have now the opportunity of complying with their offer made yesterday, and the meeting had and terms arranged at the Alleganian office.

‘Business.

‘When we read the above communication, we thought it meant business, and our convictions began to turn in favor of the Ludlow Patton as the fastest vessel that floated the placid waters of the Chesapeake and Ohio canal.

‘Referring to the back files to discover the speed of the two vessels in former trips, when there was no competitive race, we find that the Areturus made her first three miles in 1:10½ hours, with a convoy – the two boats carrying 222 tons exclusive of fuel. The time of the Ludlow Patton on her first trip this season is not given.

‘While discussing the probability of a race of speed for money, as proposed in the above communication, we were presented with the following communication, which also means business, and [illegible] victory without a severe contest. Captain Gorman is a gentleman well known in this community, and when he offers to put up his money he will stand by his proposition. Captain Gorman writes as follows:

‘Messrs. Editors:

31 Alleganian & Daily Times, Cumberland, Md., newspaper, Tuesday, 5/30/1876, p. 4.
“Noticing from the two or three last issues in the Alleganian, considerable blowing about racing boats on the canal, I hereby make the following proposition: I can and will carry more coal – go to Georgetown in less time, burn less fuel, (and do less blowing,) than any other boat now running on the canal, for the sum of five hundred dollars. Money to be placed in the hands of the editors of the Alleganian. Now, gentlemen, put up, or shut up.

John Gorman
Captain Arthur Lovell

“The Arthur Lovell made her first trip on April 9, with a convoy, and made 2½ miles per hour from Cumberland, on her way down.

“Gentlemen, the field is now open. Who will enter the list? Let us have one of the old-fashioned races, with all the excitement, but without the danger that used to attend them on the waters of the West. While it will give us a pleasurable excitement, it will also stimulate the navigation of the canal by steam and point out the advantages to be gained.”

In 1876 we can verify the Arthur Lovell, Capt. J. R. Masters [towed by Lovell], Ludlow Patton, Areturus, New Era and Henry Thomas Weld made the following departures from Cumberland, the date is of the newspaper, they actually left the day before. Clearly steamers were active freighters of coal.

The steamer Arthur Lovell, towing the Capt. John R. Masters, made 21 round trips; Ludlow Patton made 24 round trips, Areturus made 28 round trips, New Era made 29 round trips and Henry Thomas Weld made 15 round trips. The steamers Thomas Moore, Thomas Venner, Alpha, Star No. 1, Star No. 2 and Star No. 3 also freighted this 1876 season. John Gorman’s steam canal boat, Arthur Lovell, was one of several on the canal that year.

In January 1877 a newspaper reported: “Mr. John Gorman during the past season made twenty-one round trips on the canal with his steamer, the Arthur Lovell, taking a tow. This, Mr. Gorman tells us, is the best record made by any steamer during the year.”\(^{34}\) We know it was a good record, but not the best record for number of trips; however, since each trip had a tow, a case could be made based on tons freighted.

The steamer Arthur Lovell, Capt. Thomas [sic. John] Gorman, is now being used as a tug to tow the mule boats loaded at the Potomac wharf to the lock at the terminus of the canal. The Lovell is a strong steamer and will be of great assistance to the boats.\(^{35}\) This only lasted one day.

The "Arthur Lovell," with boat "Capt. Masters" in tow, will leave this morning. These boats carry the first shipments this season of the Borden Mining Company.\(^{36}\)

Something must have happened in late August or early September, 1877 because on Sept. 7, 1877, in consideration of $5,000, John Gorman sold the canal scow Capt. John R. Masters and steam canal boat Arthur Lovell, two mules, the furniture, fixtures, boat harness, etc. one cow and three hogs to William Young, of Cumberland. The adjacent data indicates that Capt. John Cowden took over the two boats as of 8/31/1877. Notice that on Jan 22, 1884, William Young released all claim, title and interest in the above property. It would appear that John Gorman spent the intervening 7 years getting his financial affairs in order and paying back the $5,000, with interest, of course.

In July 1878, Michael Degnan’s obituary read: “Mr. Michael Degnan, aged 45 years and for some time afflicted with rheumatism, died in this city on Monday morning and was buried Tuesday evening in St. Patrick’s cemetery.”

In July, 1878, in consideration of $200, John Gorman sold 2 mules to William Young.

On Dec. 12, 1878 Capt. John Gorman took the canal boat Capt. John R. Masters on a trip from Cumberland to Georgetown with Maryland Coal Company coal. Remember, that was a mule-powered canal boat.

John Gorman must have gotten his financial affairs in order, or at least his credit, because on March 28, 1879, in consideration of $1,300, Felix Bareis and Michael Rossworm sold the canal boat Sycorax to John Gorman, who was to make instalment payments of $25 for each and every trip said Boat shall make until the entire purchase money, with interest, was fully paid. Interestingly, we can confirm that the canal boat Sycorax departed Cumberland on 4/1, 4/11, 4/22, 4/30, 5/8, 5/16, 5/27, 6/3, 6/19, 7/10, 7/21, 7/30, 8/6, 8/16, 9/2, 11/1, 11/12 and 11/21/1879 always with Capt. Hassett bound for Georgetown with Borden Mining Company coal. The purchase money, with interest, was fully paid and the mortgage released on 10/24/1896, 17 years later.

The 1880 census listed John Gorman, age 40, a boatman on the canal, living in Frankfort, W. Va. Living with him were: Margaret, age 29, wife; Mary, age 8, daughter; Annie, age 5, daughter; Leota, age 3, daughter; Frances, age 9/12, daughter; and Julia A. Apple, age 26, servant.

In April 1880 Captain John Gorman, of the steamers Arthur Lovell and Areturus and the tow boats Invincible and Pattie Dunlop, loaded with Borden coal and lay-to on the West Virginia side of the river near the Potomac wharf.⁴⁴ In the morning, threatening letters were found in each of the steamers advising against freighting with a blank bill of lading or manifest. Capt. Gorman did not leave until the question of freight rate was settled; eventually at $1.10 per ton to Georgetown.

The local newspaper reported that the steamers Arthur Lovell and Areturus with the tow-boats Invincible and Pattie Dunlop departed Cumberland on Thursday, 4/8/1880.⁴⁵ Capt. Gorman was in charge of three, with Capt. Dunlop in charge of the Pattie Dunlop. There was a rumor that Capt. Gorman’s crew deserted him at Oldtown, however, subsequent information denied the statement. What is evident is that Capt. Gorman turned the Arthur Lovell (16 trips) over to Capt. Griffith, Areturus (22 trips) over to Capt. Hassett and Invincible (15 trips) to Capt. Griffith. The Pattie Dunlop was a “tow-boat of opportunity” as evidenced by its disappearance with Capt. Gorman’s boats. The canal boat James Clark, another Borden boat, was most frequently listed as departing with the Areturus. Every listed departure of these two steamers included a listing of a tow-boat; the steamers usually departed with 95 to 100 tons of coal while the tow-boats departed with 110 to 120 tons of coal. There are variances in the 1880 canal boat data; e.g. one of the steamers left on a given date and then departed again two days later, not possible. At least we know that all of Capt. Gorman’s boats freighted Borden Mining Company coal to Georgetown.

We can confirm Capt. Gorman’s canal boat Sycorax departed Cumberland on 4/14, 4/24, 5/7, 5/15, 5/25, 6/4, 6/17, 6/25, 7/3, 7/15, 7/30, 8/11, 8/22, 8/30, 9/10, 9/23, 10/4, 10/22, 10/30 and 11/9/1880 always with Capt. Hassett, bound for Georgetown freighting Borden Mining Company coal. There must have been more than one Capt. Hassett.

We can confirm Capt. Gorman’s steamer Antares [sic. Areturus] departed Cumberland 43 times with either Capt. Griffith or Capt. Hassett; the steamer Arthur Lovell departed Cumberland 21 times with Capt. Griffith, and the tow-boat Invincible departed Cumberland 13 times with a variety of captains in 1881.⁴⁶ The business arrangement between Capt. John Gorman and the captains of his boats have not been found.

We can confirm Capt. Gorman’s canal boat Sycorax departed Cumberland on 4/7, 4/16, 4/28, 5/12, 5/26, 6/7, 6/20, 7/2, 7/15, 7/27, 8/10, 8/27, 9/26, 10/12, 10/22, 11/4, 11/15 and 11/28/1881 always with Capt. Hassett, bound for Georgetown freighting Borden Mining Company coal.⁴⁷ Capt. John Gorman departed Cumberland with the canal boat Edmund Cahill on 9/26/1881 bound for Georgetown with New Central Coal Company coal. It looks like John Gorman kept his hand in boating, taking one trip, but retaining Capt. Hassett to operate the Sycorax.

The steamer Areturus departed Cumberland on 9/12, 9/29, 10/13, 10/28, 11/13 and 11/23/1882.\(^48\) About 11 o’clock on Friday night, 11/24/1882 other boats running at night noticed the cabin of the Areturus on fire at Cherry Run. The other boatmen awoke the captain, Thomas Donnelly, and with the crew attempted to extinguish the flames. The wood was dry and saturated with oil and grease, the fire destroyed the cabin and burned that portion of the boat to the water’s edge. The fire supposedly originated in the engine room. The boat belongs to William T. Hassett, residing at Four Locks. No record has been found dating his purchase of the boat from John Gorman. From the same source the steamer Arthur Lovell, departed Cumberland on 8/28, 9/7, 9/15, 9/19, 9/23, 10/2, 10/9, 10/17 and 10/25/1882. And Sycorax departed Cumberland on 9/2, 9/18, 10/3, 10/19, 11/2 and 11/21/1882. Certainly, the data must be incomplete.

In 1884 a John Gorman operated a saloon on Baltimore street, near the bridge.\(^49\)

On Nov. 19, 1888, John Gibson Kight, age 25, of Piedmont, W. Va., an engineer, married Mary Gorman, age 16, of Cumberland, Md.\(^50\)

In 1890 a John Gorman operated a saloon at 5 N. Mechanic street, and lived upstairs.\(^51\)

On April 4,1893, a small fire started in the warehouse of the Cumberland Hardware Co. The small blaze of 5:45 p.m. fanned by a strong wind, was a raging conflagration by 8 o’clock that evening, and destroyed more property that any other fire in Cumberland ever did before. Mr. John Gorman’s hotel and restaurant was destroyed.\(^52\)

Sarah Degnan’s 1894 obituary read: “Funeral of Miss Sarah Degnan – The funeral of Miss Sarah Degnan, who died on last Friday night about 12 o’clock, will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o’clock from St. Patrick’s church. Miss Degnan was a sister (sic. sister-in-law) of Mr. John Gorman of this city and an old resident. The ceremony will be conducted by Father Johnston. Interment in St. Patrick’s cemetery. Death from cancer.”\(^53\)

In 1894 a newspaper reported: “Cut Her Arm Badly. – While washing windows yesterday afternoon at her residence on South Mechanic street, Mrs. John Gorman had her left arm badly cut by the breaking of a pane. Dr. Wiley was summoned and dressed the lady’s injuries.”\(^54\)

John Gorman of 61 N. Mechanic St., Cumberland applied for a liquor license.\(^55\)

In 1895 a John Gorman operated a saloon at 29 N. Mechanic street, and lived upstairs.\(^56\) That same year we read: “GUILTY OR NOT GUILTY – The criminal docket was resumed in the Circuit Court this morning. Robert Keeley, charged with assault and battery, was tried before a jury and acquitted. Attorney F. B. Whiting defended him. Needy is a bar tender employed at John Gorman’s saloon on Mechanic street. The chief prosecuting witness in the case was a Wabash workman named Kelley, who testified that on the afternoon of April 1, he was attacked by the bar tender and badly beaten with a club. The bar tender testified that Kelley came into the place drunk and upon being refused drinks without pay became abusive and attacked him (the bar tender) and that he was obliged to defend himself.”

The next year we read: “In the Circuit Court – Case No. 15, State vs. John Gorman, selling liquor to minor. Pearre for State, Ferd. Williams for defense. Mrs. John Gorman was called and examined for defense. After argument the court withheld its decision.”

John Gorman purchased a piano from H. T. HANMER’S music store, 63 Baltimore St., Cumberland, circa June 1897; possibly for the saloon? In any event, his name was included in an advertisement by H. T. HANMER’S store, daily, from July 3 through Sept. 6, 1897.

The 1900 census reported John Gorman, age 62 (b. 1/1838), a saloon keeper, living in Cumberland, Md. Living with him were: Margaret, age 48 (b. 4/1852), she had 13 children 9 of which were still living; Annie, age 24 (b. 9/1875), daughter; Leota, age 22 (b. 4/1878), daughter; Sadie [Sarah], age 18 (b. 11/1881), daughter; Hilda, age 12 (b. 7/1887), daughter; John, age 11 (b. 11/1888), son; Arthur P., age 5 (b. 11/1894), son; James Kennedy age 65, a boarder; Hattie West, age 17, a servant; and Frank Robinson, age 30, a servant.

The 1900 census listed J. G. Kight, age 38, a locomotive engineer, living at 26 Pennsylvania Ave., in Cumberland, Md. Living with him were: Mary, age 28, wife; Mary, age 10, daughter; Ruth, age 9, daughter; and Esther, age 3, daughter.

In early 1905, a newspaper reported: “BARTENDER HELD – William Kelly, the Wabasher, who was struck on the head with a club, or iron pipe, in John Gorman’s saloon, on Mechanic street Saturday, swore out a warrant against his assailant and Kelly was held on $300 bail for the actions of the grand jury. “Kelly was recently arrested on the charge of assaulting another Wabasher. He has the reputation of being too handy with a club.” Later that same month, John Gorman applied for a Saloon license at 40 North Mechanic street.

A local newspaper had the following obituary: JOHN GORMAN DEAD

SUDDEN END OF WELL-KNOWN HOTEL KEEPER AND OLD BOATMAN

A Resident of Cumberland Since the War – One of the Most Popular Men of the Old Days of the Canal. After an illness of little more than twenty-four hours, Mr. John Gorman, proprietor of the West Virginia House, on North Mechanic street, died at his residence about 3 o’clock yesterday afternoon, as briefly mentioned in the Times of that issue. On Sunday Mr. Gorman ate heartily of roasting ears, from which he suffered a severe attack of cramps resulting in death as stated above. Mr. Gorman was born in Ireland, and came to this country when a mere boy, landing in New York, and shortly afterwards coming to Cumberland. He was among the most energetic and successful boatmen during the prosperous days of the canal, and was universally liked, being a man of most kindly instincts and generous impulses, and his sudden end came as a shock to a large circle of friends. During the last three years he suffered severe domestic afflictions, losing his wife and two daughters, Annie and Leota, by death. The surviving children are Mrs. Gibson Kight, South Cumberland; Mrs. P. H. Long, Misses Sadie and Hilda Gorman, and John and Arthur Gorman. Outside of his immediate family, Mr. Gorman had no relatives in this country. He was a member of St. Patrick’s Catholic church. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Hugh Henry Tate was a professional baseball player recruited from University of Pennsylvania, at 5’-11” and 190 lbs. His first game date was Sep. 21, 1905 and his final game date was Sep. 25, 1905; he batted right-handed and threw right-handed.

On Wednesday, Nov. 15, 1905, a fire started at a two-story frame building at 48 North Mechanic street, owned and occupied by Mr. Samuel Denson. The fire companies responded without coordination and the fire spread to an adjacent frame building. On the south side of the Denton building stood brick building known as the West Virginia hotel, and occupied by the family of the late John Gorman. The fact that the brick walls prevented the fire from spreading, together with a still morning, prevented what might have been a most disastrous fire.

The 1907 city directory mentioned that John Gorman had died August 29, 1905, aged 57 years. Living in the family home, Gorman’s Café, saloon, 36 N. Mechanic St. were: Hilda; John, a barber at James O’Neill; and Arthur P., a student.

In 1907 Joseph G. Kight was an engineer on B. & O. Railroad living at 158 Race street, Cumberland. His daughter, Mary Jo Kight, lived with him.

In 1907 Hugh H. Tate was a baseball player boarding at 36 N. Mechanic St., Cumberland. The 1910 census listed John T. Garman, age 21, a cousin to the head of the household [Joseph Albaugh], living on N. Centre St., working as a barber. Also living in the same household were Sarah Tate, age 28, cousin; Elizabeth, age 3, cousin; and Hugh, age 4/12, cousin. Joseph Albaugh was a Hotel Keeper and apparently let his cousins stay at his hotel.

The 1910 census reported Arthur Gorman, age 15, a clerk in a grocery store living in Cumberland. He was living with his brother-in-law, Maurice C. Willison, age 34, a livery stable hostler, his wife, Hilda [Marie Gorman] Willison, age 22, and their son, John C., age 4/12.

At the request of Felix Bareis & Michael Rossworm this mortgage was recorded April 5, 1879 @ 1:30 p.m.

This Indenture made this twenty eighth (28) day of March eighteen hundred and seventy nine between John Gorman of Allegany County, State of Maryland party of the one part, and Felix Bareis and Michael Rossworm of Allegany County, State of Maryland parties of the second part: Whereas the said party of the second part has this day sold to the said party of the first part the Canal Boat called Sycorax at and for the sum of Thirteen hundred ($1,300) dollars, which the said party of the first part is to pay to the said party of the second part in installments, and in the manner and upon the terms hereinafter mentioned, to wit: Twenty five dollars for each and every trip said Boat shall make from Cumberland to Georgetown, Washington, Alexandria or any other port East of Cumberland until the entire sum of purchase money with interest is fully paid, crediting the respective payments thereon as of the time when such payments shall have been made. And Whereas it was part of said contract of purchase and sale between the said party of the first part and the said party of the second part, that the said party of the first part shall use the said boat exclusively in freighting coal from Cumberland to Georgetown, Alexandria or Washington City in regular trips both day and night, with as much expedition and regularity as can be reasonably done; and to receive the loads of the said boat promptly at each trip with coal of such company or person as the said party of the second part shall direct; and to freight the same at the lowest current rates which shall be paid by the Consolidation Coal Company, the Borden Mining Company, and the Hampshire and Baltimore Coal Company, and keep said boat in proper repair; and that the said party of the first part will not during the continuance of this instrument of writing; assign, transfer or set over or otherwise by any act or deed permit the said boat to be assigned, transferred or set over unto any other person or persons whomsoever, without the consent in writing of the said party of the second part or his authorized agent, all of which said stipulations the said party of the first part hereby covenants and agrees with the said party of the second part and his assigns to fulfill and perform. Provided always that if the said company should not furnish loading for said boat within twenty four hours after the boat has been reported by the Captain at the place of loading ready to receive her load, then the said party of the first part shall have the right of loading wherever he chooses for the trip, if such want of readiness to load the boat is caused by any default on the part of the said company, or its agents; but in case of a glut of boats or in case such default either in loading or unloading happens from any other cause than a personal default of the said company, or its agents, then all the boats carrying coal for it must take their turn in loading and unloading, and no claim shall be made for such detention. And Whereas the said party of the first part is anxious to secure unto the said party of the second part and his assigns, the regular and due payments of each and every installment of said purchase money, and also to secure to the said party of the second part and his assigns, the regular, prompt and due performance of the covenants aforesaid, the said party of the first part is willing to execute these presents.

Now, this Indenture Witnesseth that the said party of the first part for and in consideration of the premises, hath granted, bargained and sold, and by these presents, doth grant, bargain and sell unto the said party of the second part and his assigns the Canal Boat called Sycorax, to have and to hold the same unto the said party of the second part and his assigns forever.
Provided nevertheless, and it is hereby declared to be the true intent and meaning of these presents, that if the said party of the first part shall well & truly pay unto the said party of the second part, or his assigns, the aforesaid installments of purchase money, upon each and every trip as aforesaid, until the whole purchase money, with interest as aforesaid, shall be fully paid; and if the said party of the first part shall well and truly do and perform all the covenants on his part to be done and performed, as set forth within this mortgage, then this instrument of writing, and every matter and thing herein contained shall cease and be utterly null and void, otherwise to remain in full force and virtue in law.

And this instrument further Witnesseth: that it is mutually agreed between the parties aforesaid that in case of any default upon the part of the said party of the first part to make regular payments on account of said purchase money, as herein provided, or in case of a failure to make regular trips as aforesaid with said boat, or in case of refusal or neglect upon the part of the said party of the first part to freight for the company or person designated by the said party of the second part or his authorized agent, or in case of a failure or neglect to use all diligence, care and skill in making such trips with said boat, as before mentioned, or in case said boat is not kept in proper repair, or in case of a transfer without permission as aforesaid, or in case of a failure to perform any of the stipulations or recitals in this mortgage named to be done and performed on the part of the party of the first part, then and in either event the said party of the second part, or his assigns, or any duly authorized agent, is hereby authorized to take immediate possession of said boat, and after ten days public notice thereof in a newspaper printed in the City of Cumberland, to sell said canal boat at public sale, as mortgagee, to the highest bidder, for cash or on credit; and out of the proceeds of such sale pay first the expenses of such sale and advertisement, and then the balance due to said party of the second part or his assigns, of said purchase money and interest, and if there be an overplus the said party or his assigns are to pay the same to the said party of the first part.

In Witnesseth whereof the said John Gorman hath hereunto subscribed his name and affixed his seal on the day and year first above written.
